Job Description

POE Officer's work includes safety, size and weight regulation. The duties of a POE Officer contribute to highway safety and saving lives.

POE Officer Interns are the first level in the POE Officer classification, and are law enforcement officers.

Officers visually and physically inspect the condition of commercial motor vehicles and drivers to detect unsafe conditions, and verify compliance with laws, rules and regulations.

The inspection process includes: reviewing permits, registrations, licenses, shipping papers and vehicle loads; weighing loads to determine gross and axle weights; measuring the height, length and width of the vehicle and/or load; and checking for non-taxed fuel. Officers issue citations or summonses to drivers. Once certified as a safety inspector, officers conduct safety inspections and are authorized to declare a driver and or vehicle out of service for violations.
