Income Tax Filing - NetFile/TeleFile (Payments)

I filed my income tax return using NetFile/Telefile. How do I pay if I owe tax?

If you file your state tax return by using the department's NetFile/Telefile program and you owe money you must send a check or money order along with form DR 0900 "Individual Income Tax Payment Voucher For Electronic Filers, TeleFilers and NetFilers." You may print this form on the NetFile print screen or you may download an adobe acrobat PDF version through the department's Web site at www. taxcolorado.com

A copy of the DR 0900 form in the Colorado 104 Individual Income Tax Booklet.

The DR 0900 is not submitted electronically. You must manually fill out the payment voucher and mail it with your payment. If you owe tax but choose to take advantage of the state's automatic extension of time to file, you must send your payment with form DR 158-I "Extension Payment Voucher For Colorado Individual Income Tax." Send the voucher with your payment on or before April 15. Do not use the DR 0900 when applying for the extension. The extension deadline is Oct. 15 but only applies to the NetFile tax return -- not money owed. Payment should accompany the appropriate payment form and be sent to: Colorado Department of Revenue, Denver, CO 80261-0008

Individuals may also pay their Colorado personal income tax, estimated income tax or past due income tax online by eCheck or credit card through its Colorado Online Tax Payment program found online at www.taxcolorado.com
