COLORADO BOULEVARD RECONSTRUCTION

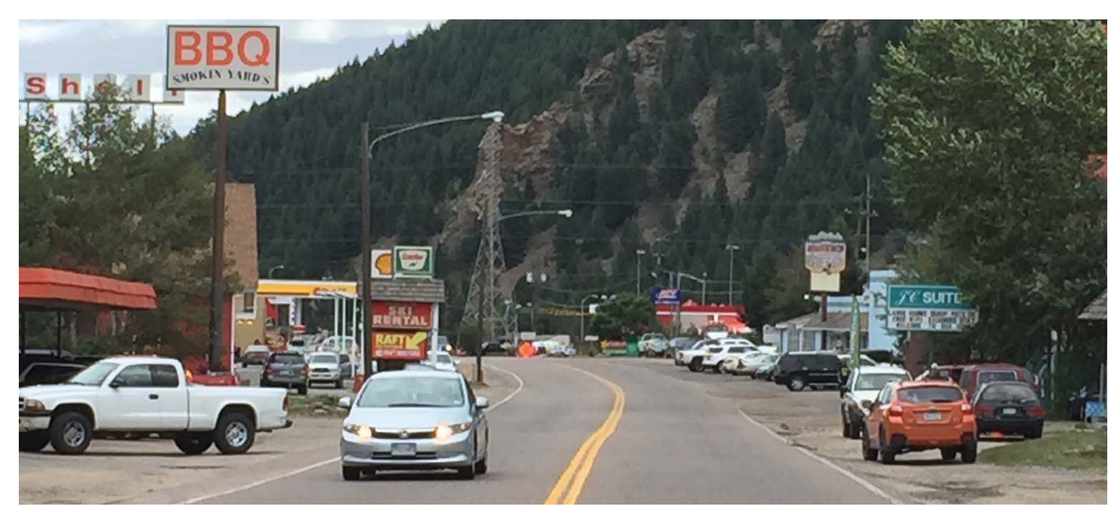
Welcome

The purpose of today's meeting is to:

- Reintroduce the Colorado Boulevard Reconstruction Program
- Provide information on project guiding principles, process, schedule, design and construction
- Gather your input
  - Please use your red and green stickers to help us understand how the community of Idaho Springs wants to incorporate urban design elements and access into the Design of Colorado Bouldvard, Phase III.
  - Please take a comment sheet and engage the project staff with questions and suggestions.
- Learn how you can stay involved
- Present Next Steps

We need your help to create a great project!

- Phase III design is just beginning.
- We need your participation in order to create the best solutions together.
- Please offer your experiences within the community of Idaho Springs.
- Please ask questions!

In 2002, the Colorado Department of Transportation (CDOT) began the reconstruction effort of Colorado Boulevard. The City of Idaho Springs has assumed ownership and responsibility for construction and maintance of Colorado Boulevard.


This change in project leadership offers the opportunity to design a thoroughfare that accommodates motorists, pedestrians and bicyclists. In addition, the new design will be respectful of the unique history and character of Idaho Springs, while providing appropriate additions to current and future land uses.
