

South Terminal Redevelopment Overview

Denver International Airport's (DIA) South Terminal Redevelopment Program is the next step in enhancing the airport's competitive standing as a world-leading airport and positioning DIA for continued growth.

DIA'S South Terminal Redevelopment Program is made up of independent, yet physically integrated projects, which include design and construction of:

- 500-room Westin hotel and conference center;
- Public Transit Center, including an RTD East Rail Line station connecting DIA to downtown Denver and improvements to the existing concourse baggage and train systems; and
- Open-air public plaza for community programs and events that will connect the development to the existing Jeppesen Terminal.
