

A Responsible Vendor server and seller training program should be established by the Marijuana state authority. The authority shall approve a program containing standards and curriculum including:

information required on licenses, age requirements, and unlawful acts; administrative and criminal liability and license and court sanctions; statutory and regulatory requirements for employees and owners;

acceptable forms of identification;

local and state licensing and enforcement, which may include, but not limited to key statutes and rules affecting consumers, owners, managers, and employees.

The authority may grant a licensed marijuana business a responsible vendor designation.