

Daniel A. Chenoweth

Dan Chenoweth, is founder of Chenoweth and Associates Business Consulting and a Senior Consultant with the Vector Group, Inc., a global consulting firm that helps organizations identify and resolve their priority business issues. Dan has a broad background in international business, starting with a strong foundation in finance as a CPA. He has held executive level positions in general management and finance in a number of industries including telecommunications, printing and publishing, heavy equipment manufacturing, and apparel manufacturing. In recent years, Dan has focused on general management issues in today' s changing business environment, including organization leadership, business process analysis and improvement, strategic supplier relationships, and strategic planning. Dan holds a BS from the University of Southern Colorado and MBA for the University of Denver. He has been an Instructor in the Master's Program for Project Management at Denver Technical College and is currently a Post Graduate Teaching Fellow in the College of Business Distance Learning program at Colorado State University.