Re: CDPS Implementation of a Credentialing and Identification System

To whom it may concern,

This letter confirms that the Colorado Department of Public Safety (CDPS) has committed both financially and operationally to implement a uniform credentialing and identification system. The system is administered by the Division of Homeland Security and Emergency Management (DHSEM). Both the DHSEM and the Colorado Bureau of Investigation have transitioned to the system. The remaining elements of CDPS are in the process of transitioning to the new system. The Department has a contract with Salamander to provide the products and services that support this system.

In order to enhance interoperability in response credentials, DHSEM will support the use of the system in other state agencies and local response agencies.

Sincerely,

Stan Hilkey
Executive Director
