

1033 DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE EXCESS PROPERTY GENERAL INFORMATION

1. The following stipulations apply to all equipment provided under the 1033 Program despite type, condition, or source. (Additional stipulations may apply.)
  - a. The equipment is utilized in support of law enforcement operations, providing support to the law enforcement officer on the street. The equipment must directly assist in the execution of his/her primary duties. Requests for equipment for use in counter drug/terrorism activity, receives priority consideration for approval.
  - b. The receiving Law Enforcement Agency (LEA) assumes sole responsibility for all associated legal liabilities and costs.
  - c. It is not the intent of this program for an agency to sell excess Department of Defense (DoD) property to obtain funds; nor to trade excess DOD property for new equipment from a commercial vendor; nor to convert to personal use. Equipment may not be sold, transferred, or disposed of except as directed by DOD and departmental regulations. Equipment no longer needed, will be disposed of according to the laws and regulations governing the disposal of public property for your agency FOLLOWING THE APPROVAL FROM THE SPOC & LESO.
**items requiring DEMIL will be identified as such when issued, and require the equipment be returned to a Disposition Services Site (DSS) or transferred to another participating LEA when no longer needed.*
  - d. A LEA CANNOT request equipment for an unauthorized fire department, city/county road maintenance department, school district, etc.

5. The Department of Defense does NOT charge for excess property provided to LEAs. Applicable transportation cost may be applied to some equipment.
6. Most excess equipment is used and some is declared unserviceable for military use. All excess property is provided 'as is, where is', without warranty. It is the responsibility of the receiving LEA to pick-up, properly operate, service, and maintain the equipment. However, if the equipment at a DSS is not suitable or serviceable for law enforcement, the LEA does not have to take it.
7. Agencies requesting surplus aircraft must have a functioning aviation operation and demonstrate that they have the resources and capabilities to properly operate, maintain, secure, and insure the aircraft being requested.
8. Approved agencies are permitted to visit a Disposition Services Site (DSS), such as Ft Carson, for the purpose of locating the equipment that may assist the law enforcement agency's operations. Only two (2) persons from the agency will be allowed at the DSS to screen at any one time with a scheduled appointment. However, up to four (4) persons may be authorized/designated on your agency's data sheet to screen equipment.
