Colorado Department of Revenue welcomes new Division of Gaming director

Denver, CO, February 15, 2018 -- The Colorado Department of Revenue (CDOR) is proud to announce that Donia Amick will take over as the new director of the Division of Gaming on March 6, 2018.

"Donia shares the same values that Department of Revenue leadership and the Colorado Limited Gaming Control Commission champion; collaboration, transparency and customer service," said Flavio Quintana, senior director of enforcement. "She is customer focused and I am confident that she will continue to foster strong working relationships with the gaming industry and the citizens of Colorado."

Amick joins the division with 20 years of law enforcement experience. She most recently served as the chief of investigations with the Liquor Enforcement Division where she oversaw the licensing and enforcement teams responsible for inspections, compliance checks, hidden ownership investigations and trade practice violations. Prior to that, she served as a detective, patrol sergeant and detective sergeant with the Lakewood Police Department.

Amick received a bachelor of arts in political science from the University of Colorado at Boulder and a master's in public administration from the University of Colorado at Denver.

The Colorado Department of Revenue is dedicated to providing quality service to our customers in fulfillment of our fiduciary and statutory responsibilities, while instilling public confidence through professional and responsive employees.*
