Subject: COMMUNICATION BRIEF
Office of Community Living Restructure Update

Purpose: The purpose of this communication brief is to provide all stakeholders with an update and “Who Does What” document related to the recent Office of Community Living (OCL) restructure and announce a webinar to further discuss this information.

Information: As you may be aware, the Office of Community Living (OCL) recently underwent a process to reorganize and integrate our work. The effort removed internal silos so we can more effectively administer and innovate within the programs the OCL is charged with overseeing. The OCL would like to share our most up-to-date information about “Who Does What” in OCL. We know there has been some confusion about who to contact for certain benefits and initiatives, and we hope the document can help you navigate where to go to get your questions answered.*

Please note that the “Who Does What” document is dated April 9, 2018. Because we have a large office, changes do happen. If you cannot reach the person you are trying to reach, please try the Manager or Division Director who oversees that position.

We are sending this communication now because the Leadership Team of the OCL committed to allowing each of the new Divisions to define and organize their operational sections and units, to clarify their core areas of responsibilities, and to develop the right structures to operate in a fully integrated and efficient way – a rightfully time-consuming undertaking.

We will be hosting a webinar to talk through the new OCL structure and to answer questions from the community.
