Colorado Native Lagers are the only lagers brewed with 100% Colorado ingredients: barley grown in the San Luis Valley, Colorado-grown hops, Rocky Mountain water and the oldest variety of brewing yeast in the state. The majority of the barley and hops used to brew other Colorado beers comes from out-of-state. By using only Colorado-grown barley and hops we are supporting the Colorado agriculture community. We do not ship brewing ingredients into the state. Our bottles are made in Wheat Ridge, our cans are made in Golden and we do not sell our beer outside the state: this adds up to a smaller carbon footprint and a great tasting all Colorado beer.
