Insight into vision loss Ensignt Skills Center panel presentation April 10

Low vision is a hidden disability which often perplexes individuals, families, and friends; but, when families and caregivers understand vision loss, people can adjust to their conditions in better, healthier ways. The community is invited to a free a panel presentation by experts in low vision from Ensignt Skills Center. The presentation will be held on Friday, April 10 from 10:00 a.m. to noon at the Estes Park Senior Center, 220 Fourth Street. Drop in, no advance sign up is needed.

The panel will include low vision specialists, local low vision resources and services, and helpful tips and comments from those with vision loss. There will also be time for questions and answers.

The mission of the Ensignt Skills Center and Curtis Strong Center for Visually Impaired is to provide individuals with low vision the opportunity to enhance their life skills, independence, and self confidence in a safe environment through training and adaptive technology. For more information on Ensignt Skills Center, call (970) 407-9999 or visit their website at www.ensightskills.org.
