Proposed Changes to PBT Policy

- Create a new eligible provider type (BCaBA) that can provide and bill for services.
- Improve quality, effectiveness, and consistency, of services.
 - Learn from new PAR process questions rolled out 4/1/2018
 - Plan to hire degreed professional to review PARs and develop additional guidance for reviewers

Why create new eligible provider type?

- Expand limited provider pool
- National certification for BCaBA providers has grown

What is meant by improving quality, effectiveness, and consistency (QEC) of services?

- Quality of current professional knowledge and standards applied to development and approval of care plans
- Effectiveness of therapies as measured by outcomes and met goals
- Consistency of access to quality services for children across the state

Improving QEC – New Provider Questions

- Examples of questions added to the PAR process on 4/1/18
 - Has the child received behavioral therapy services from a different organization in the past 6 months?
 - What screening tool was used to assess the need for behavioral therapy?
- Examples of how these questions may help improve QEC
 - Identify differences across providers and nature of client access issues
 - Identify if certain assessment tools lead to more accurate assessments and outcomes

Improving QEC – Plan to hire degreed professional to review PARs

- Degreed professional would:
 - Review 50-100 previously approved PARs to assess them for quality of: care plan; goals w/in the plan and any previous plans; and the degree to which goals were met.
 - Use information gathered to develop additional training and/or guidelines for PAR reviewing staff.
- Example of how these actions may help improve QEC
 - Reduce instances in which child is discharged by one provider for meeting care plan goals only to begin new care plan with different provider.

Questions for this group

- Creating a new eligible provider type (BCaBA)
 - Are there other mid-level provider types of which we are not aware and which we should consider including as eligible direct service providers?
 - How do you anticipate the addition of this provider type will help your organization?
 - Do you have concerns about the addition of this provider type?

Questions for this group

- Addition of PAR process questions
 - Are the questions added as of 4/1/2018 clear?
 - Can your office answer the questions as written?
 - Do you have additional question suggestions that may help us improve QEC over time?
 - What advice would you give the Department about how to improve the QEC of services across providers? How do you monitor and improve upon quality?

Questions for this group

- Hiring degreed professional to review PARs
 - Do you have concerns about the hiring of a degreed professional to review PARs and to provide further guidance to PAR reviewers? If so, what are they?
 - Do you have advice regarding what the degreed professional should be looking for when evaluating the quality of the care plan, the goals therein and whether those goals were met?
 - If you were advising PAR reviewers, what guidance would you give them that may help to improve QEC over time?

Thank You
