What is Presumptive Eligibility?

October 2016

Presumptive Eligibility (PE) is a Health First Colorado (Colorado's Medicaid Program) and Child Health Plan Plus (CHP+) program that provides immediate temporary medical coverage for children under 19 and pregnant women. You must complete an application and appear eligible to get the temporary health care benefits.

PE allows eligible pregnant women and children to receive access to immediate medical care through Health First Colorado or CHP+. The temporary medical coverage lasts to the end of the following month of application.

Who is eligible for PE?

- Children under 19
- Pregnant women

How do I apply for PE?

- You need to apply at an approved PE Site
- The PE site will give you the Medical Assistance Application or you can print it and bring it with you to the PE site. You can also apply through PEAK at Colorado.gov/PEAK and print out your application to present at the PE site. You must complete all pages of the application.

What is PEAK?

- Colorado PEAK is Colorado's online application for public benefits including Health First Colorado and CHP+.
- PEAK is available 24/7 and can be accessed from any computer with internet access at Colorado.gov/PEAK.

What type of PE medical benefits will I receive?

The medical benefits you receive are based on which program (Health First Colorado or CHP+) you are found eligible for based on your family size and income.

Our mission is to improve health care access and outcomes for the people we serve while demonstrating sound stewardship of financial resources.

What happens next?

- Your application will be sent to an Eligibility Site or County of Residence for processing.
- The Eligibility Site or County of Residence will determine if you are eligible for expanded Health First Colorado or CHP+ beyond PE benefits.
- You will receive a letter in the mail from the Eligibility Site or County of Residence that will tell you if you are approved or denied for health care benefits. If you are approved for benefits, you will receive a medical card in the mail for each approved family member.
