

Susan Tyburski received her Juris Doctorate from the University of Denver where she also earned a Bachelor's degree in English and Philosophy and a Master's degree in English. She is pursuing a second Master's degree in Communication Studies, with an emphasis in Alternative Dispute Resolution, from the University of Denver. Most recently, Ms. Tyburski has practiced administrative law as an Administrative Hearings Officer for the Colorado Department of Corrections from 2007 to 2014. Prior to her work with DOC, she had a private law practice in criminal defense, labor and employment law from 1989 to 2006. Earlier, she worked as an associate attorney with a Denver law firm and handled labor arbitrations, hearings and criminal trials for a variety of state and federal administrative agencies. Ms. Tyburski has worked as a part time adjunct faculty member at the University of Denver since 2005 when she was hired in the Law and Society program. Currently she teaches law and literature classes in the Gender and Women's Studies Department.
