

Free Seminar

Understanding Plant Patents, Plant Breeder Rights and Certified Seed

How do they protect variety integrity and intellectual property?

The Colorado Department of Agriculture will host a panel discussion on laws pertinent to protecting variety assets. Experts will be on hand to present the various programs and answer questions about protecting intellectual property, which programs apply, and tools you can use to protect your varieties.

Tuesday, December 15, 2015

1:00pm-4:00pm

Colorado Department of Agriculture
305 Interlocken Parkway
Broomfield, CO 80021

Panelists:

James Weatherly, Executive Director,
Seed Innovation Protection Alliance

Frank Curtis, CEO, Limagrain

Rick Novak, Colorado State University Seed Lab

Colorado Seed Growers Association

Attendance is free, but seating is limited.
To reserve your seat, contact Sharon Farr at
(303) 869-9055 or Sharon.Farr@state.co.us.

www.colorado.gov/agplants

COLORADO
Department of Agriculture
Division of Plant Industry